aware of the presence of touts or, unauthorised agents outside some passport offices. However, it is not true that the officers working in passport offices are helpless because of the presence of touts. Investigations so far have not established any direct linkage between these unauthorised agents and employees of Passport Offices.

(c) to (e) The Passport Officer and other officers go on rounds of the Passport Office premises to check the presence of touts or unauthorised agents. To eliminate the menace of unauthorised agents or touts, recognised travel agents have been authorised to submit applications for passport related services. In addition, facilitation counters have been introduced in some passport offices where Ex-Servicemen's Associations have been permitted to assist applicants in filling of passport applications at nominal fee. Police Authorities have also been approached to curb the activities of such touts/unauthorised agents.

The Government have introduced wide ranging reforms including decentralisation of acceptance of passport applications at district level and selected Speed Post Centres. These reforms will curb the activities of touts.
